Phillip, William Russell
Charged In Court Today

A sturdily-built, 34-year-old Saanich carpenter, believed by police to be Greater Victoria's famed "cat burglar," and his brother were charged in Saanich police court today and remanded without plea to Thursday.

Saanich police, meanwhile, said they have recovered more than $5,000 loot from the homes of the accused, Phillip Vass Russell, 3235 Seaton Road, and his brother, William Edward Russell, 3235 Shelbourne Street.

Phillip, the alleged "cat burglar," was charged specifically with breaking and entering and committing theft at the home of C. A. M. Hunter. William was charged with retaining property of Mr. Hunter.

Allies Probe Smoke Screens Masking Reds

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO (AP)—Allied forces pored deeper into North Korea today, maintaining relentless pressure on three enemy build-up areas where smoke screens may mask movements for a big Red offensive.

On the western front, Allied troops seized a foothold on the last remaining heights south of the rubble city of Chorwon. This is one of the three major bases 17 miles north of the 38th parallel.

To the east, Allied tank and infantry battered Reds guarding the road to Kumsu, a bastion of the central front. Between Chorwon and Kumsu a battle raged for the huge Hwachon Dam.

The Reds' man-made smoke screens began to lift late Tuesday afternoon. United Nations planes roared into action—with jelled-gasoline bombs, rockets and machine guns.

On the ground the Allies battered the Reds with artillery and rifle fire.

MASSED IN HILLS

Thousands of Communist soldiers are massed in the hills north of the dam. The Allied attack was aimed to block their long-expected spring offensive.

Rigid new censorship regulations issued by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new Allied supreme commander, banned all references to the exact size and location of Chinese and Red Korean forces.

On the western front United Nations troops maintained their pressure south of Chorwon. The heavily-bombed town, 17 miles north of the border, is an important Chinese base and road junction.

ISLAND FIRE RESTRICTIONS EFFECTIVE AT MIDNIGHT

Fire restrictions in the Vancouver forest district which includes all Vancouver Island have been moved up from May 1 to midnight tonight. The move forecast by the Victoria Daily Times Monday was effected today by provincial order-in-council.

C. D. Orchard, deputy forests minister, said it was the first time this had been necessary. The current hot, dry spell has left the southwestern part of the province very dry. Fires have broken out in Saanich and on the mainland.

The regulations require permits for all fires in the area controlled by the B.C. forest service. Rangers are empowered to order any fire extinguished.

Two fires were reported in Saanich Monday—a two-acre bush blaze near Durranee and West Saanich Road, fought for more than six hours before controlled by firemen—and a five-acre blaze on the property of Harold Brookes, fought by Central Saanich and city brigades.

B.C. SMOKERS TODAY PAY 41 CENTS FOR CIGARETS

The new price of a pack of cigarettes in B.C. today is 41 cents, a boost of four cents on the pre-budget figure. News of the step-up in prices was received by Victoria wholesalers following announcements by the leading Canadian cigaret manufacturers.

The boost of four cents is one cent more than the tax imposed on the packet by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott in his budget of last week.

The new price becomes effective immediately, and refers to the standard brands.

The price brought smoking to its most expensive level in recent years, except in the far north where retailers charge whatever the traffic will bear.

MacARTHUR POLICY SCORED BY BRADLEY

Says Course Advocated By Deposed Far East Commander Would 'Jeopardize World Peace'

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, five-star peer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said today Asian military policies advocated by the deposed commander would "jeopardize world peace."

Honolulu Gives Great Welcome To MacArthur

Congress Wires Him Formal Invitation

HONOLULU (AP)—Gen. MacArthur leaves the flower-scented hospitality of Hawaii today to challenge in the United States Congress the views of the President who fired him over war policy.

(In Washington today, Congress sent the general a formal invitation to address it at 12:30 p.m. E.S.T. Thursday. The message was dispatched immediately after the Senate by unanimous consent agreed to a joint meeting with the House of Representatives to hear the general.)

Gen. MacArthur's sleek, shiny plane, the Bataan, was scheduled to take off from Honolulu International Airport at 9:30 a.m. Hawaiian time (2:30 p.m. E.S.T.) en route to San Francisco and Washington. It should arrive at San Francisco about 8 p.m. P.S.T. (11 p.m. E.S.T.). After an overnight rest in San Francisco and brief ceremonies there Wednesday morning, MacArthur will depart for Washington and his appearance Thursday before a joint session of Congress.

The five-star general and hero of three wars got a foretaste Monday of the applause. For two hours Hawaii's polygot population, lining a 25-mile route, to San Francisco and Washington. The spontaneous outburst of acclaim—at this starting point of the Pacific war—presaged pageantry and public demonstrations planned for him in San Francisco, Washington and New York.

Bradley was the first of the homecoming general's five-star brothers-in-rank to speak out publicly against the theory of carrying the war to China since President Truman dismissed MacArthur last week. Bradley did not mention MacArthur's name.

Last year's quick United Nations action in Korea, Bradley said, may have stayed the Kremlin's hand as it was about to precipitate a Third World War.

Bradley roundly backed the President's stand against MacArthur's ideas and defended the administration's policy of limiting the war in Korea.

MAY BE STALEMATE

In a speech prepared for delivery to the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, Bradley also said:

1. The Korean war, under present conditions, may be headed toward a stalemate, but it can be brought to an honorable conclusion;

2. The United States will not wage a preventive war;

3. The one price the U.S. will not pay for peace is appeasement;

4. The use the Reds have made of air bases in Manchuria to date has not warranted U.N. bombing of them;

5. Action against aggression in Korea upset Communist plans in Asia, at least temporarily preventing Red moves in Indo-China and perhaps saving Thailand and Formosa, and

6. Any attempt to settle the world crisis by an ultimatum—perhaps accompanied by a threat to bomb Russia—is militarily impracticable.

In places, Bradley's viewpoint on the situation was the same as MacArthur's. He disagreed on what to do about it. Bradley made it plain that "I have no intention of entering the foreign policy field or even urging a particular policy in the conduct of foreign affairs. Conduct of foreign affairs is a civilian responsibility..."

Three Drown As Ottawa River Threatens Valley

OTTAWA (CP)—Three men drowned but six others were saved from the swollen Ottawa River last night as it continued to surge in a flood rivermen said was highest in 17 years.

The three, Allan Donnelly, 27, William Holland, 34, and John Sloan, 34, all of Vinton, Que., were swept away as a boat carrying the nine men across the river from Calumet Island to Campbell's Bay, Que., capsized. Six of the men were rescued by a ferry which was near the scene.

It was the first major tragedy in the flooding river which has inundated scores of acres of land, forced families to flee their homes and caused general havoc all along its low-lying bank.

It meant worry or evacuation for many Ottawa River valley towns.

Mayor Daniel LaFortune of nearby Gatineau Point said he would ask federal authorities to place a temporary pontoon bridge over several hundred yards of inundated highway linking the town with Ottawa.

The Ottawa River level here was said to be six feet above normal for this time of the year, and 16 feet above the summer height.

Still To Get Oil

LONDON (AP)—Iran assured Britain last night her oil still will go to the British after nationalization of the Persian industry. But she said British and American talks now under way on the Iranian oil situation constitute interference in the country's affairs.

Officials of the U.S. and British said, however, they will continue talks seeking a common policy toward Iranian plans to nationalize the oil fields, presently worked by the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Ships, Planes, Divers In Wide Search; Hope Exists

PORTSMOUTH (UP)—The 1,620-ton British submarine Affray was feared sunk in the English Channel today with 75 men aboard. A Danish ship found a big oil slick in the search area.

The Affray, carrying 75 men on a training cruise, failed to come out of a dive and was feared lost in 240 feet of water.

British, French and American warships raced over to the scene and began searching a 1,900-mile rectangle southwest of the Isle of Wight and north of Cherbourg, France.

The small Danish freighter Rhodos late today sent a radio message to Lloyds from the general search area.

"Am lying in big patch of oil at 50 degrees two minutes north, two degrees west, Am staying until further notice."

The Admiralty ordered an immediate investigation. But it pointed out the channel in that area frequently is spotted with discharged oil. Ocean liners and freighters ply there regularly.

WARNING FLASHED

The search was set off by the dreaded Admiralty message "Submash One"—which alerts all naval ships and planes for rescue operations. In mid-afternoon the Admiralty flashed "Submash Two," which is an anticipation of disaster.

In a communique, the Admiralty said there still was a faint hope the Affray had misunderstood her orders and still was in a deep dive beyond reach of radio signals.

Air in a submarine is sufficient to last 48 hours, provided the hull is intact.

More than a score of ships, including two U.S. destroyers and four French craft, joined the hunt, along with British naval planes. Aboard the Affray was the regular crew of the captain, four officers, 46 crewmen and four marines. They were accompanied by 20 visiting officers taking a training course.

The Affray, built in 1946, was commanded by Lt. John Blackburn, holder of the Distinguished Service Cross.

DIVERS FLOWN IN

The ship was under orders to make a practice dive Monday night and to come up this morning, 12 hours later. She was required to report to the Admiralty daily between 8 and 9 a.m. (2 to 3 a.m. E.S.T.). This she failed to do.

Divers from a navy base in Scotland were flown to Portsmouth and instructed to be ready to dive as soon as the sub is located.

Among the search fleet, which was growing hourly, were the American destroyers Perry and Ellison. British ships included six submarines and five destroyers. Numerous aircraft joined the search and salvage craft from Portsmouth were getting up steam to join the hunt.

The Affray, 281 feet long, was completed in May, 1946. She was equipped with ejection devices to propel the crew to the surface through escape hatches. But the 240-foot depth of the channel made such an operation hazardous, experts said.

The Affray's plight was the second British submarine disaster in little more than a year. Sixty-four were killed Jan. 12, 1950, when the Truculent sank in the Thames estuary after colliding with a Swedish motor tanker.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

WORDS OF HEAT

WHEN, A FEW days ago, it became necessary for me to give a decision on a matter which had been challenged in the Legislature on a point of order, I had occasion to do some searching into "Parliamentary Practice," that monumental and authoritative treatise on legislative proceedings and practices compiled by Sir T. Erskine May, who was for many years Clerk of the British House of Commons.

And in the light of the slight rumpuses that have taken place across the Bay within the last couple of weeks, I found that learned authority's observations and findings on the subject of the proper conduct of members of Parliament intensely interesting.

PLEADS MODERATION

MAY LAYS down the dictum that good temper and moderation are the characteristics of "parliamentary language." And that parliamentary language is never more desirable than when a Member is canvassing the opinions and conduct of his opponents in debates—a decision with which no one would quibble.

As it is incumbent upon the Speaker—in any Parliament which bases its proceedings upon the "Mother of Parliaments"—to see that courteous treatment in debate is accorded to all Members, irrespective of their political affiliations, I was intrigued by his quoted list of expressions which call for prompt interference from the Chair.

UNPARLIAMENTARY

FOR INSTANCE, Members may not "impute false or unfounded motives" to other members. Charges of uttering a deliberate falsehood, or the misrepresentation of the language of another and the accusation of misrepresentation are also taboo.

Under the heading of "abusive and insulting language," May lists a number of "words of heat" which have been used in the British House in the heat of debate and which have led the Speaker to demand their immediate withdrawal by the offender—under pain of suspension. He also gives the year in which such words were first established as "abusive and insulting" in the House.

'ABUSIVE AND INSULTING'

HERE ARE some samples: "Villains" (1875), "impertinence" (1876), "rude remarks" (1887), "gross calumny" (1902), "impudence" (1901), "ruffianism" (1902), "slander" (1906), "murderer" (1923), "hooligan, blackguard" (1922), "traitor" (1911), charges of treason (1917).

That inclusion of "gross calumny" is interesting in view of another statement in the same chapter to the effect that "the word 'calumnious' has generally held to be in order." Apparently there are nice shadings of degree in the latitude allowed to Members when it comes to slander!

PERSONALITIES PLUS!

IT DOESN'T take much imagination to picture the stormy scene which must have had successive British Speakers to designate the following expressions as approbrious, either:

That a Member ought to have been imprisoned for high treason (1917), alleging that a Member's statements were "not consonant with personal honor" (1905), "malignant slander" (1902), "scurrilous" (1905), "dishonest" (1906), "malignant attack" (1915), "criminal" (1902), "corrupt" (1908).

SPARE SUCH EPITHETS

AND SPECTATORS who were startled by the recent flare-ups on the floor of our local Legislature will admit that the taunts exchanged on those occasions were positively anaemic when compared with these other choice epithets from May's list.

That a member has been "detected in the grossest practices of corruption" (1872), alleging "that a member was returned by the refuse of a large constituency" (1867), "cad or cadishness" (1924-25), "pecksniffian cant" (1928), "insulting dog" (1930-31), "lie down, dog" (1931-32), "behaving like a jackass" (1933-34), "swine" (1935-36).

ESQUIMALT CELEBRATIONS

Oldest Veterans Will Be Honored At May 4-5 Event

The oldest naval veteran and the oldest army veteran residing in Esquimalt will be sought as honor guests during this year's Esquimalt's May Celebration to be observed May 4 and 5.

Last year, the Esquimalt Celebrations Committee, which sponsors the annual event, had the municipality's oldest married couple as special guests.

This year's Maytime observance will feature crowning of the May Queen with a school track meet and army-navy tug-of-war competition in the afternoon and boxing show and dance at night.

The following day, the celebration will continue with a parade in the morning, a baby contest, soap box derby, street dancing and carnival.

New Schedules Announced For Ferry Routes

Shipping firms today announced island-mainland passenger vessel schedule changes to meet the developing tourist season and daylight saving time, April 29.

The Black Ball line will resume the Sidney-Anacortes service April 27 with the ferry leaving Anacortes at 8.30 a.m. and arriving at Sidney at 12.15. It will leave Sidney at 12.40 and arrive at Anacortes at 4.40.

June 1 Washington State will take over the service.

Mv. Chinook will continue to be operated by the Black Ball. Present Victoria-Port Angeles-Seattle service will continue to May 25 on standard time. More runs are planned after that.

The C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Service proposes the following changes:

Victoria - Vancouver - Seattle—From April 29 to June 29: Leave Vancouver daily at 10.30; arrive Victoria 2.45; leave Victoria 4.30; arrive Seattle 8.30; leave Seattle at 8 a.m.; arrive Victoria 11; leave Victoria 1.10; arrive Vancouver 5.25. The "midnight" boats will continue to sail from both Vancouver and Victoria but at 10.59, arriving at 6. All times standard.

Nanaimo-Vancouver — Leave Nanaimo daily at 6.30 a.m., 1.30 and 8.15; arrive Vancouver 8.45, 4 and 10.45. Leave Vancouver daily 10 a.m., 5.45. Arrive Nanaimo 12.30 p.m., 7.30 and 9. All times standard.

If travel warrants an extra sailing will be added each day.

Victoria Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., a tag day.

The organization, in a brief, advised committee the bulk of their proceeds went to provide milk for needy children in Victoria. In their original application they listed the Solarium and Crippleage in England also, but said they would cancel out these two in order to get the tag day.

As the Solarium has a tag day, committee raised question of over-lapping.

Ald. Muller felt this changed the picture, but Ald. Baxter was opposed to reopening the question. She stated there were many other worthwhile organizations which would then be able to approach the city again.

During the debate, Ald. Muller said, though he did not favor government subsidization, he felt the time was coming when milk should be subsidized as the high cost was forcing many families to go without it.

Preferential Vote System Under Fire

Wismer, Straith Reply To Attack Launched By Winch

Elections Act changes stirred the Legislature Monday with Attorney-General Wismer and Provincial Secretary Straith defending the preferential vote system planned in the face of a bitter attack from the Opposition.

C.C.F. Leader Winch opened debate on second reading of the changes, describing the legislation as "the most weird, fantastic and shameful bill ever introduced in a Parliament of Canada."

His adjectives were directed to the preferential ballot, or single transferable vote, as well as to the methods to be used in its application.

Winch charged that the legislation was introduced for matters of political expediency only.

He said this was obvious with the government straying from the usual practice of appointing a committee of members from both sides of the House to study and recommend any proposed Elections Act amendments. He noted, too, where such a committee in recent years had recommended against the single transferable vote.

"There is no doubt that the Liberals and Conservatives want to break up in this Coalition, and are giving themselves every possible protection," he said.

The listing of candidates by alphabetical order was displeasing to the Opposition Leader also, who said that in multiple-seat ridings where separate ballots will be distributed for each of the seats, opportunity should be given for a party to run its strongest candidates against the strongest of another party.

He thought the multi-seat ridings should be broken down to single-seat ridings.

MAJORITY SHALL RULE

Attorney-General Wismer said the amendments had one principle—that the majority of the people shall rule.

In the past, said Mr. Wismer, candidates had been elected to office by minority votes.

It was the government's belief that the majority of people wanted the preferential vote because it was feared that a Socialist form of government could be elected by a minority of the people which would change their entire way of life and bring ruin to the province.

In his contribution to the defence of the amendments, Mr. Straith said there would be little difference in coming elections under the new system than at present.

Government candidates had first place on the ballots now. With Coalition, provision had to be made for the candidates of the two parties of the union. The official Opposition candidate would move from second position to third for the first election only after the end of Coalition.

Residents Of Sidney Vote Today On Beer

Hundreds of Sidney residents today were voting on the provincial government plebiscite on whether they are in favor of selling beer by the glass in the community. The plebiscite was authorized by the government after residents petitioned for it.

Interest in the plebiscite was evident in view of the large number of residents who turned up at three polling stations at 8 this morning. The polls will close at 8 tonight. W. E. Poupore is returning officer.

If sale of beer by the glass is approved, A. M. Dore, Victoria, former owner of the Halfway House, has indicated that he would start construction of a $150,000, 20-room hotel at Sidney. It will be located at Beacon Avenue and First Street.

A 55 per cent affirmative vote is required before sale of beer by the glass can be approved in the community.

Hospital Appeal Case Is Under Way

Appeal of the Vancouver General Hospital against a Supreme Court judgment awarding $44,000 to Elizabeth Mildred Fraser of Vancouver, for alleged negligence with regard to the hospitalization for her late husband, continued before the Court of Appeal today.

Judgment was rendered against the hospital by the Vancouver Supreme Court for discharging by mistake the widow's husband from hospital. Mr. Fraser was discharged from the hospital when he was suffering from an alleged fractured neck.

Labor Petition Voted Down In Legislature

Organized labor's attempts to revive the hospital insurance financing question with a petition signed by over 205,000 citizens failed in the Legislature Monday night.

The petition, calling on the government to withdraw the $9 increase in premiums and co-insurance charges or place the question before the electorate, was filed by Opposition Leader Harold Winch.

When the C.C.F. head moved that the petition be considered by a committee of the whole House, he was voted down.

A division called by Winch on the motion showed Tom Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, and W.A.C. Bennett, Independent, South Okanagan, voting with the seven-man C.C.F. group. Absent were Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, Cln. Victoria, and Mrs. Tilly Rolston, Independent, Vancouver Point Grey.

Public galleries of the Legislative Chamber were crowded for the filing of the petition. With four two-foot high bundles of the petition stacked on his desk, Winch told the House the sheets of paper carried 205,770 signatures and there were 10,000 more in the mail.

An attempt was made by Reg. MacDougall, Cln., Vancouver Point Grey, to block the Opposition Leader in his move to file the petition on the grounds it contravened standing orders in that it called for expenditure or a charge on public funds.

Second Industrial Power Russian Claim As Post-War Plan Succeeds

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet press said today Russia has exceeded the first post-war five-year plan production goals, thereby becoming the world's second largest industrial power. The press published present-age figures on the increase in production over 1940, giving a base which enabled observers to compute 1950 production. The 1950 output in basic industries included 19,350,000 tons of pig iron, 7,200,000 tons of steel and 260,600,000 tons of coal.

The newspapers Pravda and Izvestia recalled in an editorial Premier Stalin demanded in 1946 that production by 1960 be increased to 50,000,000 tons of pig iron, 60,000,000 tons of steel and 500,000,000 tons of coal. Foreign observers said Stalin's goals would be reached and exceeded if there was no war and if the present rate of progress continued.

They inferred from Stalin's statement that the Kremlin would do its utmost to maintain peace between now and 1960 to achieve what is considered here to be the essential condition for the transition from the present socialist phase to the Communist organization of society.

Montreal Theatre Messenger Robbed

MONTREAL (CP)—A theatre usher was held up Monday and robbed of an estimated $2,600 in small bills and silver. The victim, 20-year-old Andre Hervey, was en route to a nearby bank from the Chateau Theatre at St. Denis and Belanger when accosted.

He was forced into a shed in a laneway and the money, carried in a briefcase, taken from him.

Churchman Jailed

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The Chinese Communists said today they have jailed the Italian Roman Catholic Archbishop of Kalgeng, in Honan Province, and his three missionary deputies. Official Communist press reports said Archbishop Gaetano Pollio and the missionaries—also Italians—were arrested April 1. They were charged with inciting rioters.

Think Russians In Korea Air War Now

Score One-Sided, But U.S. May Be Lagging In Reports Of Plane Losses

WASHINGTON (UP)—Air officers here are daily becoming more convinced that American pilots are battling Russians in the skies over northwest Korea.

G.O.P. Urges Probe Of U.S. Orient Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans today proposed creation of a 24-member Senate House of Representatives committee to make a broad investigation of Far Eastern policy.

The Republican policy committee endorsed a resolution calling for "a complete evaluation of the United States policies in the Far East and their relation to the foreign and military policies of the United States as a whole."

Senate Democratic leaders have agreed there should be an airing of the policy differences behind President Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Far Eastern commands.

But both parties have accused each other of playing politics in the Truman-MacArthur controversy.

Chairman Robert Taft (Rep. O.) said the resolution ought to be pointed at a full airing of the Truman administration's world policies, and not be just a limited inquiry into the reasons for MacArthur's discharge as Pacific commander.

Senator Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, said he doesn't care how the investigation is made. "Just so the people get the facts," he said. But other Democratic senators said Democratic defence of the President's policies is likely to take the form of an attack on the Republican advocacy of MacArthur's theory that the vital fight against Communism is in Asia, rather than Europe.

Since the first Russian-made jets crossed the Manchurian frontier last November, the nationality of their pilots has been a mystery. Nothing definite has been announced officially. But for reasons they consider good, although not publishable, air-men believe at least some of the MIG-15 jets are flown by Russians.

Figures made available today by the Air Force indicate that the Soviet-built aircraft have made a fairly unimpressive showing during the 5½-month period they have been attacking American planes. The Far East Air Force claims to have destroyed or damaged 147 MIG-15's in combat.

Eleven U.S. planes have been shot down by Soviet fighters, according to F.E.A.F. figures. Some high-ranking officers here, however, believe F.E.A.F. is lagging in its loss and damage announcements.

Pressure has been applied to speed up the disclosures. As far as can be determined, now, F.E.A.F. has lost one F-56 Sabre, one F-84 Thunderjet, two B-29's and perhaps seven F-80 Shooting Stars to the MIG's.

While air sources remain positive that American airmen have demonstrated superiority over enemy pilots, they are less prone to scoff at the Red fliers than previously.

Moscow Meeting

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The United States ambassador to Russia, Alan G. Kirk, today called by appointment on the Soviet Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, Valerian Zorin.

An American Embassy spokesman said Kirk talked with Zorin about "routine matters."

SHEFFIELD HAS HIGHEST TYPE OF JAYWALKER

SHEFFIELD (CP)—Northern England breeds the sturdiest type of jaywalker in the United Kingdom, says L. M. Pugh, clerk to the Sheffield panel of magistrates.

After years of handling traffic cases, this is how he sizes up the situation: "The jaywalker of Southern England steps into the road without looking. The northern variety looks, then steps out boldly defying the traffic."

"The northerner invariably fixes the motorist's eye and walks slowly across the road."

Briton To Be Deputy Chief Atlantic Navy

LONDON (Reuters)—The Deputy Supreme Commander of the Atlantic Navy will be a Briton. It was announced today.

The British government had already selected the admiral for this appointment, an official statement said.

It was awaiting formal nomination by the United States government of an American officer as Supreme Allied Commander in the Atlantic.

The government, giving its reasons for supporting the appointment of a U.S. officer as Supreme Commander in the Atlantic—already the subject of widespread controversy in Britain—said: "Its defence can only be secured by all the North Atlantic powers concerned acting in close concert for the common advantage."

While eastern Atlantic defence is of vital interest to Britain, defence of the western Atlantic is of the greatest concern to the U.S., the statement added.

PRINCESS WILL WAIT

Sultan In England To Try To End Romance

LONDON (AP)—The roly-poly Sultan of Kedah packed his retinue and 3½ trunks into a London hotel today and announced a private audience for a defiant young Malay princess who wants to marry an Englishman.

The Sultan, His Highness Sir Badlishah Ibn Al-Narhum, had hurried in from northern Malaya to pick up a new canary-colored Rolls-Royce and to talk to his 19-year-old niece—Princess Zabarlah, who found work in Britain as a typist and fell in love with an ordinary Englishman, Arthur Collins, 21, a printing apprentice. The five-foot Sultan, who rules 500,000 subjects back in north Malaya, said he had a few things to tell the young princess, but wouldn't disclose what.

The Princess Zabarlah had sought family permission to marry. For an answer, she got a curt "No." The Princess said the Sultan's visit will make no difference. "Whatever happens, I intend to marry Arthur, even if I have to wait until I'm 21," she said.

CHINESE YOUTHS STRIKE BRITISH FLAG AT TANSUI

TAIPEI (AP)—Forty Chinese students, angered over reports Britain had proposed giving Formosa to the Chinese Reds, hauled down the Union Jack at the British consulate at nearby Tansui.

They hoisted the Chinese Nationalist flag and ripped British emblems from two consular cars, but did no further harm to the consulate or its personnel. They chalked anti-British slogans on the walls.

A consulate official hauled down the Nationalist flag, but the students immediately ran it up again.

Police stationed at the consulate—an old Dutch fort overlooking Formosa Straits—finally persuaded the students to leave.

HOME-SAFETY ADVICE

Health Department Warns Of Crippling Accidents

When you play "20 questions" on home safety, you may win your life advises the city health department today who urges residents to think in terms of safe homes as well as clean ones, during the current annual observance of "Clean-up, Paint-up Week."

Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer, in his annual report, emphasized the high number of home accidents and said most of them could be prevented. Leading crippling accidents include falls, cuts, burns, foreign bodies, puncture wounds and poisons.

"Almost from birth a child is subject to the many dangers of the 'safe home,'" according to the health department. "As soon as he becomes active he reaches for safety pins and other dangerous objects."

Included in 20 questions asked by the department and covering every room in the house are: "Do you make it a rule never to smoke in bed? Do you turn pot handles toward the back of the stove? Do you label medicines properly? Do you throw main switch when replacing a fuse?"

Girl Finds Drugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four-year-old Wanda Irvine, playing catch in the backyard of her home, today discovered a cache of narcotics worth $10,000 on the illicit drug market.

Her parents turned the narcotics over to the R.C.M.P.

Predict Big Four Meet To Proceed Agendaless

PARIS (AP)—An informed western official predicted today that the Big Four deputies will eventually agree to hold a Foreign Ministers' meeting without an agenda.

Deputies from the United States, Britain, Russia and France have been meeting here since March 5, trying to arrange a list of subjects to be discussed at a Foreign Ministers' conference. So far, they have not agreed.

The western official said tension between East and West is too great at this time to allow the possibility of a conference collapse at a "deputies' level."

The four powers were still deadlocked as they began their seventh week of meetings this afternoon.

Dulles Confers With Ridgway

TOKYO (AP)—John Foster Dulles conferred today with Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway for about two hours. Presumably the special ambassador and Ridgway talked about the progress of a peace treaty for Japan.

Ridgway is Gen. MacArthur's successor as Allied Supreme Commander.

Dulles and Ridgway will talk tomorrow with Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida.

In a statement obviously aimed at quiet Japanese fears that MacArthur's firing might delay the treaty, Dulles said that President Truman and MacArthur both still back the program of a speedy treaty for Japan.

Five A-Bombs Could Cripple Britain

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Air Commodore Sir Frank Whittle, inventor of the jet aircraft, said Monday five well-placed atom bombs could destroy the economic life of Britain.

Whittle, chairman of the United Kingdom Migration Council, also appealed for large-scale migration from Britain to the Commonwealth countries.

He told the Rhodesia National Affairs Association strategically the very existence of the Commonwealth might depend on large-scale migration as a matter of policy.

The contribution to Empire defence would be far greater, he said, if the £4,700,000,000 the British government planned to spend on defence during the next three years were spent on large-scale immigration to Commonwealth countries.

The Second Debate Opens

THE GREAT DEBATE ON THE defence of Europe just concluded, the United States plunges now into a debate of equal magnitude on Asia. General MacArthur's large purposes there are obscure. His friends say he seeks only peace through strength, his enemies that he would plunge the world into full-scale war in China and beyond. But at least he has achieved already his first objective—to force his country to reconsider its entire Asiatic policy.

In the first confusions which always precede a major decision in the American democracy the real issue raised by the General's dismissal will take some time to clarify itself. The issue is as old as the Constitution. It is whether the power of the Presidency shall be abdicated.

The Constitution places in the hands of the President alone the power to conduct foreign affairs. He is not obliged to consult with anyone, not even his cabinet. He is responsible to no one except the people and then only at intervals of four years. And by the Constitution he is Commander-in-Chief of all the armed forces.

The makers of the Constitution knew what they were doing. One of their first objects was to place the armed forces under civilian control. There were to be, in the United States, no men on horse-back.

Again and again in American history American Presidents, notably Lincoln in the case of McClellan, have removed generals who refused to obey them. That precisely is what President Truman has done in the case of General MacArthur. The fact of disobedience is clearly established. If he had accepted it Mr. Truman would have abdicated his supreme powers and foreign policy would have been made in Tokyo instead of Washington. The basic strength of the Constitution would have been undermined. The armed forces, as represented by General MacArthur, would have supplanted the civilian Government.

Even more serious results would have followed in the present state of affairs. A continuance of General MacArthur's public rebellion against the President would have strained the United States' alliance with the rest of the free world to the breaking point. Mr. Truman thus faced a double challenge—to the Constitution at home and to unity of the allied nations abroad. That challenge he has met as boldly as any of his predecessors.

Dangerous Discretion

THE LARGEST SINGLE INFLATION-ary pressure in Canada today is the capital boom. The vast expansion of industry (reckoned at the incredible figure of over $4 billions for this year) is taking materials, machinery and manpower out of the production of goods for the consumer and thus forcing up prices. "Heavy capital expenditures," says Mr. Abbott, "are providing the most severe internal pressure and all signs point to increasing pressure from this source."

To hold this pressure within bounds, Mr. Abbott concludes, we need "a stiff financial deterrent that will affect particularly the business man who is considering the kind of investment which is attractive... because it can be written off out of the expected high profits of the next few years."

Mr. Abbott's deterrent is quick, drastic and dangerous. All persons who acquire new property after April 10, 1951, will not be permitted, without Government consent in each case, to charge depreciation on it for tax purposes, until four years hence. A man who had built a new plant, for example, before this month can include as part of his operating expenses an allowance for depreciation, on which no taxes are charged. The removal of this provision, Mr. Abbott hopes, will discourage many enterprisers from starting new and non-essential industries and hence from using scarce supplies. Defence industries, of course, are exempted from the new law.

Mr. Johnson's Promise

REGARDLESS OF PARTY AFFILI-ation British Columbians will approve Premier Johnson's assurance that his Government will co-operate fully with the Federal Government in the nation's defence program. The best possible form of co-operation that the Provincial Government could offer would be a reduction in its expenditures, especially its expenditures on all kinds of building projects. That form of co-operation British Columbia has not offered—quite the contrary. Mr. Johnson's government is spending more than ever, more per capita than any provincial government in Canadian history.

Where Controls Failed

BRITAIN HAS BEEN ATTEMPTING to control prices by direct state order since the war. In the last year the average retail price of goods has risen by 23 per cent. In Canada the increase in this period was just over

The future and only the future will show whether General MacArthur was right in believing that a general Asiatic war, probably broadening into a world war, must be risked at this moment; or whether the United States Government and its allies were right in trying to confine the present struggle to Korea. The outcome of this argument cannot affect the constitutional principle on which the President has acted and which General MacArthur attempted to repeal. In the meantime, however, the MacArthur debate will temporarily split and weaken the unity of the States. It will put the Government under stronger pressure than ever to alter its policy in Asia. Any alteration in that policy in turn must affect the Government policy toward Europe. For if the United States were to commit large new forces to Asia and broaden the war there inevitably it must dilute its strength in Europe.

True, the commitment of six American divisions to Europe is made and can hardly be altered but those six divisions are chiefly important not in themselves but in their proclamation that, in the event of attack, the United States will defend Europe with all of its power. Should that power be bogged down in the quicksand of Asia, Europe knows that its defence would probably be impossible. Hence in the eyes of the Europeans the debate now beginning involves them directly.

The Europeans are quick to see that General MacArthur has attached to himself all the old forces of American isolationism which, by a curious inconsistency, are ready to fight in Asia but not in Europe. The General is surrounded by all those Americans who have never forgotten the Revolutionary War and have recognized no Englishman since George III. He is supported, willy-nilly, by all those who hate Britain; all those who think that the United States—the lessons of modern history to the contrary—can somehow survive alone and even conduct a world war without allies; and all those who de-nounce British imperialism and would replace it with an American imperialism. The emotions which General MacArthur has evoked are as deep as they are dangerous. Only the sanity of the American people, rising above the present tumult in Washington, can save the nation and the world from the very kind of disunity and disaster which the Kremlin has long awaited.

New investment doubtless will be discouraged by Mr. Abbott's policy and under present conditions this is desirable in many cases. On the other hand, industries important to the nation's progress may be suppressed. Who is to decide between the desirable and undesirable ventures?

The Government will decide by its wide powers of discretion. It may grant depreciation allowances to one industry and refuse them to another. Ministerial discretion is virtually unlimited and this is the unsound precedent established in this deflationary remedy. For once the Government can vary the law as it pleases as between individuals it will be under continual political pressure from its friends. Depreciation and politics may become increasingly associated.

If the Government was compelled, as it was, to reduce the capital boom it could have accomplished the desired result by a regulation affecting all business concerns alike. All depreciation allowances could have been reduced or all postponed for a brief period. As it is the old concern and the new are treated differently, and among the new the Government may vary the treatment as it sees fit. Over a period of four years the resulting mistakes and abuses of official discretion could be serious. When a Government undertakes to discriminate as between taxpayers it introduces a vicious principle and assures troubles not only for the taxpayers but for itself.

This simply means that the Government is competing more than ever for the available supply of goods against the defence program and the consumer and thus contributing to widespread inflation.

In his recent budget speech, Mr. Abbott pleaded again with the provinces and municipalities to reduce their spending. The answer is a general rise in provincial and municipal spending throughout the nation. If Mr. Johnson means what he says, as no doubt he does, his obvious duty is to see that provincial spending is reduced or at least that it does not rise further.

15 per cent. Yet there are people in Canada, notably the C.C.F. politicians, who imagine that Britain has cured inflation by the simple act of declaring, like King Canute, that the price tide shall not rise.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

LAST week was, among other things, National Wildlife Week. And hooray for that. Not only do I wish long life to wild things, but I'd like a life much wilder for myself. But I can't find myself in complete agreement with everything written on the subject last week. There was an editorial in the

Brock

Vancouver Sun, for example, which spoke of all those critters (including, I suppose, the rattlesnakes and moths and cuttlefish) as our natural resources. (There seemed to be some mention here of the pheasant as a natural resource of B.C., though perhaps I misread it. I had always thought pheasants were planted in B.C. by man, and not any too securely either.)

Well, I may be unenterprising, but I prefer to think of a moose or robin or grizzly or lizard as his own boss and his own natural resource, so to speak, not as a cross between a slave and a little investment of mine. MY reason for not killing them has nothing to do with money. Neither has it anything to do with some sentimental philosophy, for I'd willingly kill birds and beasts if I had to, while living off the country. It's just that I'd feel rather ashamed to go round bumping off warm-blooded creatures when I didn't have to... creatures that in some ways manage certain things better than I do. This sense of guilt may be frightfully silly. But at any rate, I'd feel even guiltier about keeping a wild animal alive because I thought of him in terms of money alone. I'd feel less guilty at shooting him for fun than at treasuring him up for cash. Killing things is, happily or not, a fairly common and natural instinct. To save a bear or a swan up for mere thrift alone is not so closely connected with nature. At least, I hope not, for I find the notion quite disgusting.

IN helping to protect wildlife, the citizen will add definitely to the revenue and wealth of his province," says the Sun, along with a hundred similar voices. Now if the creatures do mean money to us, INCIDENTALLY, that's all right. But if money is your sole argument, then to the pigs with it. Go and make money out of sausages, not out of mountain sheep.

And by the way, it is quite blind, if not hypocritical, to talk about the wonderful way we're going to preserve the balance of nature, when all the time we are doing our level best to ruin it by means of dirty fumes, polluted waters, and murderous things like DDT. We don't even know how DDT affects our own nerves yet. But we do know it is killing off more good things than bad, and we know there are more good insects than bad ones. As one conservationist said to another, "Have you killed many bees this season?"

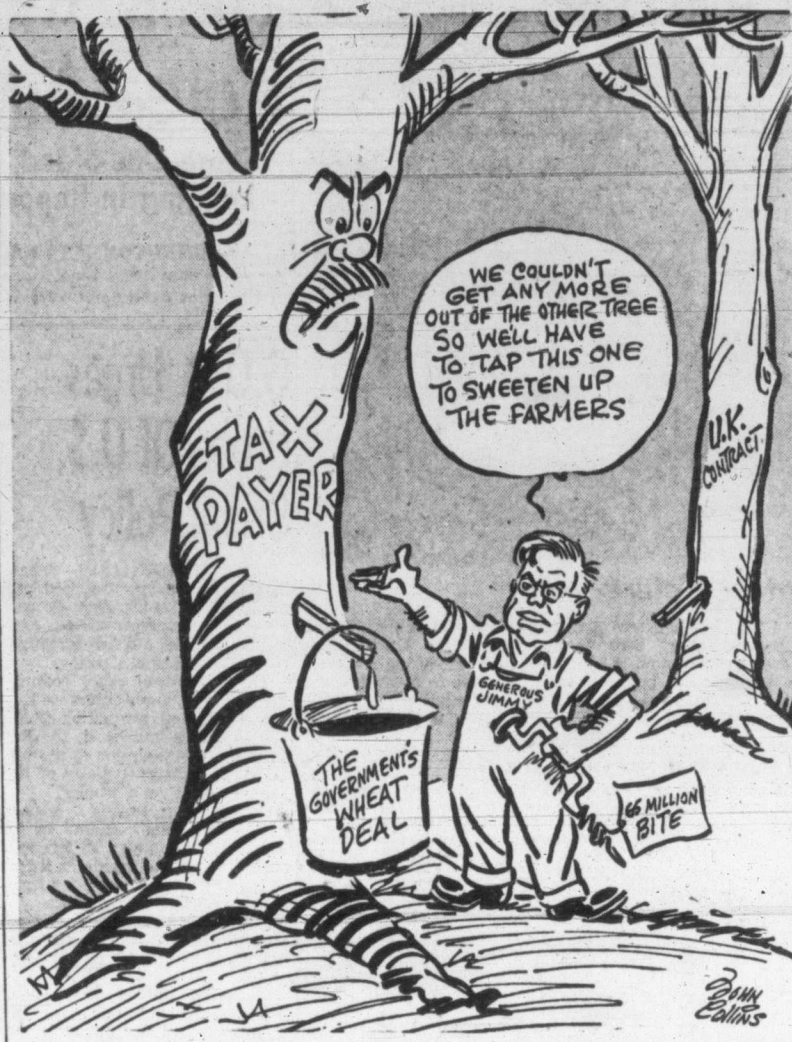

IT IS also blind to pretend that every wild species is going to accommodate itself to a changing world. Most mammals, especially the larger ones, will not be able to survive in a truly wild state. According to L. H. Matthews of Bristol University and the London Zoological Society, their extinction (in a truly wild state) is not far distant, because of the complete dominance of one species (you) and the ever-growing extent of its interference with OTHER processes of nature, not just its interference with mammals as such. Mammals took over from the reptiles about 60 million years ago, at the end of the Cretaceous period. They reached their peak (in kinds and numbers) during the Pliocene, since when they have been going downhill. They began to diminish before there were any modern men at all, let alone conservationist on one hand and butchers on the other. (I don't know about those two hands... sometimes they seem to be clasped and mingled, with the butchers conserving for money and the conservationists thinking of better butchery later.)

I SUPPOSE a cynic would observe that any species which vanishes from this earth is lucky, things being what they are. I'm afraid I'm not whimsical enough to be able to picture a non-existent thing enjoying its good fortune. I cannot even imagine a species having a group-mind (until it is taught to read, of course). But I am whimsical enough to watch the geese going over my house at this very instant and to yell to them: "Hi, up there! Even if you don't bring my grandchildren more than about 17 cents each, you can't spoil my fun in seeing and hearing you this morning. In fact, if you are planning to bring money around here, I honestly wish you wouldn't. Can't you damn geese think about anything except cash?"

MORE CONSERVATION

SPEAKING of conservation, several small weeklies used to come to me inside large, heavy brown envelopes in prime condition. My stationer used to charge me a couple of cents each for such envelopes, so I began to conserve. The ones that came around those weeks, I suppose I saved 200 of the things a year (or $4), and I used them for mailing manuscripts, and filling things away in, and so on. But my conservation has come to an end. All those publishers are starting to conserve too, and they mail their wretched weeklies to me all naked now. I have no legitimate kick against the ones that came to me free; I just feel bitter, not angry. But I am angry with the ones I paid for. At $2 a year, the X.Y. is a distinct gyp, but with something like a buck's worth of high-class envelopes it was just bearable. As I shall hasten to tell its editor. What does he think I subscribed to it for? To read it?

How Sappy Do They Think We Are?

As Our Readers See It

SALES TAX

No government in Canada would ever propose to add to all the other taxes we now pay, a flat three per cent income tax on everyone. As far as those Canadians who have to spend most of their earnings on day-to-day living, that is just about what Ottawa is proposing should happen to us—and is encouraging it. But the tax would be hidden, so we're not supposed to be smart enough to object.

Ottawa is suggesting that the constitution be amended to allow the provinces to collect a hidden tax of up to three per cent on everything bought in the stores from the retailer. The retailer would have to pay the tax but he couldn't possibly absorb it, so it would be passed on in increased prices.

This tax wouldn't be collected on the basis of ability to pay, by which it could fall heaviest on the more wealthy and lightest on the working man and those who are having a tough enough time to get along with spiraling taxes what they are today. This tax would be collected on all money spent on retail goods, which is practically every dollar most Canadians earn.

TAX CONSCIOUS.

Calgary, Alta.

DOESN'T LIKE IT

I never thought that anything could make me mad enough to write a letter like this for publication.

I'm beginning to suspect that all the stories about Hitler being alive are perfectly true. He must be locked up in a closet somewhere in our legislative buildings. How else could such a dictatorial government get a hold in our own beautiful British Columbia?

We are not asked but told that our hospital insurance premiums will be increased. Furthermore all petitions will be blissfully ignored no matter if everyone in the province signs!

"You can get a petition signed for anything if the people think it is going to save them money," said Mr. Anscomb. Really!

It's time that the legislators stopped for a while and listened to the voice of the people. We like to save money, yes, but it's much more than that. This flagrant disregard for public opinion just doesn't fit in with the idea of democracy.

M. SUTTON.

ASKING FOR IT

According to a report of his speech to the Lions Club last Friday, Captain D. J. Proudfoot, M.L.A., is the only one of the three city members who has any influence—despite the fact that he has been a member of the Legislature for less than two years, and is now finishing his second experience in legislative debate.

It seems to me that Hon. W. T. Strath, British Columbia's able Minister of Education, and Hon. Nancy Hodges, Speaker of the Legislature, were politically mature long before Captain Proudfoot nudged his way—by, let it be known, commendable dogged perseverance—into the active political realm.

But it appears to me, as a casual observer, that when Captain Proudfoot figuratively shakes the exhortive finger at Mayor George, saying to the mayor, if he wants anything for the city "he should ask through me, or he won't get it," he is, himself "asking" for it.

SOFT SOAP

Today I received in my mail 65 cents worth of coupons for free soap and other household necessities. Is any one dumb enough to believe that these coupons along with the postage they carry are really free? In my youth I have manufactured barrels and barrels of soft soap which made clothes just as white and clean as the super-duper glamour gloss they sell today.

Of course, puddling around in the old-fashioned wash water didn't give me soft, romantic hands but looking at my meat hooks today I must confess that they do not look much different from what they did in 1895. So what?

The main difference is that our ancestors controlled their destinies at least as far as sanitary supplies were concerned. Today "outside forces" set the price of soap at an exorbitant figure and then bribe us with our own money and keep an army of advertisers busy over radio and other mediums who, at a time like this might be building houses or doing other useful work keeping the cost of living down and holding the line against Joe Stalin.

The Curdled Milk Of Discontent

Sacramento (Calif.) Union

IT IS difficult to keep one's childhood illusions in a world characterized by swift change and peopled by avid debunkers, but it is difficult to avoid feeling more than the usual degree of dismay over the latest illusion to go—the one to the effect that cows as a class are contented creatures.

Now that we are disillusioned, we can see a dissatisfied glint in their big brown eyes. Already it is becoming hard to understand how we could ever have been fooled by their apparent placidity, their sedate cud-chewing, and their readiness to give their all when milking time arrives.

Cows, the California University School of Agriculture at Davis now reveals, are likely to be neurotic or even on the psychotic side. It seems that each herd has a queen cow, a bossie who bosses the others around. She may be contented, but the others aren't. Social climbers all, they are bitter and maladjusted. They brood, they deliver less milk when they find themselves unable to horn in on the head cow.

This revelation of the scientists at Davis—and they have made a tremendous contribution to the dairy industry of the nation—seems to open a new field for veterinarians specializing in bovine psychiatry. The problem of finding an appropriate counterpart of the psychiatrist's couch must be left to them, along with the question of how to sublimate the urge to become the arbiter of bovine society.

Now that it has been brought up, the prospect of psychiatrists for cows has an inevitability about it. For years the public has been regaled with articles bristling with figures on how much more the government was spending to deal with hog cholera, or to feed hormones to pullets, than on coping with human health and nutrition.

If appropriations to make cows contented are next on the agenda, a new thought to ruminate on will be whether contentment artificially-induced will be unaccompanied by neurosis.

Truman's Fate Lies In Korea

By STEWART ALSOP

IT may well be that in choosing this particular time to dismiss Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President Truman has chosen the best possible time—for MacArthur... It may even be that Gen. MacArthur had just this in mind when he decided to force the issue. For it is clear that the outcome of the battle between the president and the general will be determined in the end, not in Washington, but in Korea. In dismissing MacArthur, Truman has of course risked his political life. In the most unlikely event that the attempts to reach an acceptable settlement with the Chinese and their Soviet masters now succeed, and the fighting ends, Truman will enjoy a great, historic triumph. If there is no settlement, but the expected Communist offensive is held, the stalemate on the battlefield will be reflected in a stalemate between Truman and MacArthur.

DOUBLE DISASTER

But if the Communists again break through our lines, this time the breakthrough is successfully exploited, and if our forces are seriously endangered, then disaster in Korea will be disaster also for Truman. For then the demand for attacking targets in China proper, for using Nationalist troops, and for fighting the war in Asia which MacArthur wants will become irresistible.

MacArthur will seem triumphantly vindicated, while Truman will appear the architect of national disaster. And as both Truman and MacArthur are certainly fully aware, the danger of a successful Communist offensive in Korea is now as great as it has ever been. The best way to explain why the danger is now considered so serious is, oddly enough, to quote from a report cable from Korea by this reporter's partner some months ago:

"The recurrent crises in the fighting here always took the form of a great hole being torn in our lines, and then being stopped by the mobile reserves being moved up before the walking enemy could exploit the breakthrough. But even two enemy intruder fighters, attacking the interminable lines of our transport... would have been enough to produce a 24-hour tangle. Then the holes in our line could not have been stopped in time. The breakthroughs would then have been fully exploited. And we should have lost our foothold in Korea."

This pattern has held throughout the Korea fighting.

AIR THREAT

This is why reports that the Chinese are for the first time receiving important quantities of heavy weapons and transport from Soviet Siberian stocks are taken with deadly seriousness by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But what is taken even more seriously is the report that an offensive Communist air force is now being organized.

Infinitely more is of course at stake than the political fortunes of a Truman or a MacArthur. War, even a small war, has a sullen imperious logic of its own. If an enemy offensive, supported by air power based in Manchuria, endangered our troops, the logic of war would demand the bombing of the Manchurian bases, however much Truman might wish to localize the conflict. This would logically lead in turn to the bombing of Chinese lines of communication, and cities. Then the Soviets would be forced to intervene openly, or accept the equivalent of an intolerable defeat. Thus the logic of a small war leads to a great war. This logical progression toward world disaster cannot now be halted by Truman or MacArthur. It can be halted only if the men in the Kremlin decide to cut their losses in Korea, or if Ridgway and his men smash at the outset the offensive which is otherwise in prospect.

Allies and Foes

Ottawa Journal

CANADA, it is announced is to send Italy enough stores, vehicles and other things to equip an army division. She is doing it at the request of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and has been thanked by Italy for help to "the Allied forces in Europe."

"Allied forces in Europe!" When it comes to wars, or to preparation for wars, history surely plays strange pranks. In World War I, Italy was our ally against Germany. In World War II Italy, under Mussolini, was Germany's ally against us. Now Italy and West Germany are both being armed as our allies against Russia, our ally in World War II.

In World War I Japan was our ally against Germany. In World War II Japan was Germany's ally against us. Now Japan is being armed, as Germany is being armed, and Italy, to be our ally against Russia.

Significantly, two of the world's greatest powers were and are unbreakably together now. The British Commonwealth and the United States. It is something for all of us to ponder.

Budget Draws Criticism Of Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition parties in the Commons, critical of Finance Minister Abbott's 1951-52 budget, called Monday for votes of non-confidence in the government.

The non-confidence motions, traditional means to obtain recorded votes on specific grievances, were sponsored by spokesmen for the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties.

Rules of the Commons prevented Solon Low, Social Credit leader, from presenting a similar motion at this stage, but he joined the other parties in suggesting changes in the budget brought down a week ago by Mr. Abbott.

The C.C.F. motion moved by M. J. Coldwell called for limiting the new 20-per-cent defence tax on personal incomes to single persons who earn more than $1,500 a year and to married persons earning more than $3,000. Under the budget, the tax will apply to all income-tax payment beginning July 1.

The Progressive Conservatives, in a motion sponsored by their chief financial critic—J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood)—said the budget proposals are "unsatisfactory because they will inevitably increase the cost of living for all and especially for those least able to bear it."

The motion expressed regret at the government's "failure" to take effective steps "to deal with profiteering." It also said:

"This House condemns in particular, as inflationary the increase by 25 per cent of the general sales tax and is of the opinion that the increase is unnecessary and unwelcome."

"This House further condemns the heavy increase in excise taxes on certain essential commodities and is of the opinion that much of the government's proposed huge increase in taxation is due to its own extravagance."

Mr. Low termed the budget "inflationary" and said it would do nothing to "put value back into the Canadian dollar and to bring down the cost of living to manageable proportions."

Reeve Casey Advocates Council Initiate Petitions For Road Work

If Saanich council would institute petitions to do road works, then many more roads could be built and surfaced in Saanich than are now being done, Reeve Joseph W. Casey told the Saanich Council Monday night.

Speaking in regard to a complaint by Councillor H. K. Bate that "roads will never be built unless the council does something," Reeve Casey said a practice followed elsewhere was to have the council initiate local improvements.

"Instead of having 75 per cent of the people affected sign a petition, the council starts it," Reeve Casey said. "Then 50 per cent of the people must appear against it to defeat it."

The subject will be fully discussed at the next meeting of the works committee, and referred back to council.

LIBRARY CHARGE REJECTED
Council will inform Victoria City Library that it does not feel obligated to pay a $5,405 financing charge for the new library building, included in the $27,000 estimate to Saanich for library service.

Council also refused a request from Central Saanich to contribute toward Shady Creek Cemetery, in the new municipality.

Requests from Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, and North and South Saanich Agricultural Society for grants were referred to the estimates committee.

J. S. Taylor, building inspector, was named to attend a meeting between Sheet Metal Workers' International Association and local building inspectors to establish a uniform code for heating plant installations.

J. N. Fraser, who asked for repairs on Carnarvon Street, and Ernest R. McMinn for Saul Street, will be told the work can be done by local improvement.

Tenders from Ainslie Worthington of $2,317.72 for insurance on municipal automobiles, from J. Parker Buckle Ltd. of $284 for printing water bills, and from C. W. Fleming of $192 for printing tax bills were accepted.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasall

The sun, combined with a strong wind, will soon dry out the top inch of soil on a prepared seed bed.

If the bed contains large seeds, such as peas, the moisture needed for germination may be supplied with the garden hose.

But when fine seeds have been sown it is difficult to reduce the force of the water sufficiently to assure them not being washed out of the soil or covered too deeply.

Those who have gardened in parts of Canada beyond the reach of city water mains have devised many ways to assure germination when the soil is dry, and the one mentioned here is by no means new, but exceedingly effective.

The majority of the smaller garden seeds are set at a depth of around one-quarter of an inch, and this is often the driest portion of the soil.

To get sufficient moisture for germination, make a drill about one inch deep and flood this with water. Under very dry conditions (mid-summer) the flooding is repeated at hourly intervals until the water tends to lay in the drill.

The drill is then left open to the sun until early afternoon in order to warm up the wet soil. Next, a sprinkling of dry earth is put over the damp surface, the seed sown, and the necessary depth of covering applied and gently firmed.

If strong, drying winds prevail, pieces of thin board (shiplap) may be placed over the drills; the half-inch depression beneath the boards giving room for germination.

Be sure to check regularly, and remove the covering as soon as the seeds sprout, and, by the way, watch for earwigs.

Commission Recommends Legal Betting Offices

British Government Body Says Gambling Law Antiquated; Would Permit Football Pools

LONDON (Reuters)—A Government commission recommended today that bookmakers should be able to take bets at licensed offices throughout Britain.

At present bookies can only take cash bets at race tracks. Offices are restricted to bets on credit, made by letter or telephone.

The commission said the gambling laws are so out of date that police are incapable of suppressing illegal betting.

The Royal Commission on betting, lotteries and gaming was formed in 1949 under the chairmanship of Henry Willink, a former Minister of Health.

The commission also recommended:

1. No betting for anyone under 18 years of age;
2. No state-promoted gambling. But the government should tax betting as it taxed other forms of amusement;
3. Football pools should continue, but promoters should be forced to publish their accounts—which now are kept secret. The commission suggested maximum prizes of from £10,000 to £20,000 ($29,500-$59,000);
4. No gambling (such as cards) in public places. In private it should be legal provided the promoter makes no private gain, and
5. Prohibited slot machines "which automatically deliver a prize to the successful operator."

The commission concluded that "gambling is of no significance as a direct cause of serious crime."

C.C.F. Opposition Wins Recognition

The C.C.F. may have scored a victory in its opposition to proposed changes to the Dentistry Act requiring written prescriptions from dentists before laboratory technicians can make and repair false teeth.

Health Minister Douglas Turnbull was vague in his statement to the Legislature Monday when he said he was prepared to withdraw "the bulk" of an amendment to the act providing for the prescription when the legislation reaches third reading.

It was taken by the Opposition, though, that the wishes expressed last week by the two Winch C.C.F.ers will be granted.

Both Opposition Leader Harold Winch and his father, Ernest Winch, had charged the prescription requirement gave dentists dictatorial powers—that dental technicians would not be able to take on denture repairs without having blessings from a dentist. They pointed out that dentists could abuse the powers being given them by charging a "middleman" fee.

When debate on the issue was resumed Monday, Dr. J. J. Gillis, a medical practitioner, sided with the Winch team, saying the legislation was giving dentists too many powers.

He urged the government to withdraw the amendments to which opposition had been raised.

It was at this point that the Health Minister said he was prepared to withdraw "the bulk" of the "prescription clause."

He said the clause had been included to regulate a group of dental technicians, not members of the Dental Laboratory Association, who were carrying on business illegally, cheating the general public.

The College of Dental Surgeons had fairly wide powers, though, and apparently the "weeding out" of these unscrupulous technicians would be left to that organization.

Full Military Burial For Brig. J. S. Brown

Impressive military rites were held from St. Mary's Church Monday afternoon for Brig. J. Sutherland Brown, who died Friday.

The church service was conducted by Bishop Harold E. Sexton and Ven. Archdeacon A. de L. Nunns. Then the coffin was placed on a gun carriage and started off while the navy band played the "Dead March."

A party of 400 army mourners, led by Lt.-Col. A. Perron, representing 119th A.A. Battery, 129th A.A. Battery and the R.C.S.A. accompanied the carriage until the coffin was transferred to the hearse.

At the graveside Piper Ian Duncan played the Lament and Coronach, and volleys were fired by a 12-man firing party from the R.C.S.A., followed by "Taps" and "Arouse."

Honorary pallbearers were Maj.-Gen. H. F. Hertzberg, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C.; Brig. C. V. Stockwell, D.S.O.; Brig. W. G. Colquhoun, C.B.E., M.C.; Brig. J. F. Preston, M.C.; Brig. W. C. ## "Farming" the Forests of our Canadian Northwest

One of the basic raw materials vital to defense mobilization and military preparedness is purified cellulose, obtained from spruce and hemlock high-grade wood pulp. It is also a key raw material used in the manufacture of modern chemical textile yarns and plastics.

In an effort to assure an expanded and continuous supply of cellulose, Columbia Cellulose Company, Limited, was organized to pioneer an advanced project of "forest farming" in the Prince Rupert area of British Columbia. Forest Management Licence No. 1 was granted to the Company by the Province of British Columbia. Under this licence, Columbia Cellulose and Provincial authorities have instituted a program of scientific logging and planned reforestation, with logging operations directed from Terrace.

The orderly cutting and re-seeding of timber as a slow-growing farm crop, provides full utilization of natural resources, at the same time maintaining their productive capacity. This is conservation at its highest level.

The location of the new pulp plant at Prince Rupert, close to the forest areas, enables it to convert the timber into pulp with maximum efficiency. This mill provides a new and substantial source of high quality cellulose which will help relieve the present worldwide scarcity of wood pulp.

Operations of the Prince Rupert plant will contribute directly to the projected chemical plant operations in Alberta of the newly organized Canadian Chemical Company, Limited, an affiliate of Columbia Cellulose Company, Limited. Acetic acid from this plant will be combined with wood pulp from the Prince Rupert plant to produce cellulose acetate, the primary material used in the manufacture of acetate textile yarns and plastics.

These developments will contribute to the industrial self-sufficiency of Canada, creating many new jobs and contributing to the economic growth of the communities.

The planning behind an enterprise of this scope requires not only foresight and sound business judgment, but confidence as well. It is this kind of long-term planning that is responsible for Canada's great and growing industrial strength.

This was a splendid choice, said Mrs. Smith. She praised the "Prologue" who had done excellently in something that was a really difficult task. She felt the young group of actors had established themselves well in the opening scene. It was brisk and characters came over clearly. With a youthful cast it would have been easy to burlesque, the adjudicator felt, but this cast had avoided that danger.

She found it hard to remember they were students, she confessed. Mrs. Smith went on to say the costumes were well thought out and attractively worn. Her special praise went to Shilagh Clark for handling herself well, getting excellent contrast in the two scenes and making a good try at the Cockney dialect.

The make-up, acting and costuming of Ruth Miller was described as impressively mature.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

McCarey Striving For True Portrayal Of U.S. Communism

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Oscar winner Leo McCarey today took the wraps off his new film, which he says will aim at the heart of Communism in the United States.

Until now, McCarey has been silent about his new film, "My Son John," since he was fearful that other producers might steal the idea. Now that the film is well under way, he told me something of its nature.

"The idea came to me when I was in the middle of a show business story, 'Born in a Trunk,' said the creator of 'Going My Way.'

"After the idea came to me, I knew that I had to have Helen Hayes for it. So I hurried east to tell her about it. Fortunately, I sold her on it.

"This is a story about communism in America. But a picture that is merely against communism does not do the job. I feel you have to be positive about the thing. You have to show not only that communism is bad, but that the American way of life is better.

SAME PATTERN

"I have seen all other anti-Communist pictures made in Hollywood. I don't want to knock the people who made them, but to me the pictures were not art. They are merely remakes of the war-time films, with Communists as the villains instead of the Nazis.

"In my picture there will be no scenes of the Communist Party. There will be no Russians with heavy mustaches and thick accents."

Robert Walker, who plays the wayward son in the title, told me more about the story. Miss Hayes' son John is a boy who is exposed to communism during his college days. He becomes an official in a Washington agency and then he starts to get into trouble. "The federal agent is played by Van Heflin."

McCarey's main problem now is getting a conclusion for the picture. I had heard that he has written four different endings already.

Refused Increase

By ART STOTT

The few thousand people who took in the B.C. Electric's Saturday night party at the Arena were left with several things to think about. For one guy in the stands the most impressive feature was the improvement made by local youngsters on skates. It seems hard to realize that the kids who scampered out onto the ice at the end of the formal program were the same ungainly, spidery-legged uncoordinated midgets who sprawled around a couple of years ago.

None of them was in a position to tell Dick Buttorf or Barbara Ann Scott to move over. And you had to look through a parent's eyes to see material there for future Cougars. Just the same, they'd lengthened their strides, improved their balance and gained confidence.

THEY WERE THE bunch for whom the taxpayers of Victoria, with a little private help, put up nearly a million bucks to build the Arena. On Saturday night's showing, there are some returns coming from that investment.

Those returns may not work out in dollars and cents, and it's doubtful if current statistics on juvenile delinquency will prove that the Arena is the answer to the problem of wayward youth. Still, the rink has given Greater Victorians facilities to enjoy a sport and pastime as naturally Canadian as the Maple Leaf.

Experts doubt that children who have only an artificial ice surface on which to train, will make first-class hockey players. They suggest the hockey baby cuts his teeth on a puck, puts on skates as soon as he can toddle, steps out onto the ice of a corner lot rink, and supports himself with a hockey stick instead of a patented "walker." They could be right. But Lynn and "Muzz" Patrick didn't do too badly—or is that heredity?

A THING THAT impressed the guy up in the stands, too, was the fact that this growing proficiency on skates was a direct gift from the town to its young people. In its way, that's an important measure of a city—a demonstration of spirit that shows negativeness in the community. It's a symbol of generosity, too. Residents of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay can use the facilities just as cheaply as if they lived in Victoria.

If your home happens to be outside the city proper, that point's worth keeping in mind. It helps to counteract a little parochial propaganda by men in local office who don't seem to appreciate what a good neighbor they have in Victoria.

YOU WEREN'T expected to think on those lines if you went to the Arena Saturday night. You were just invited to have a good time. When the man at the mike said the ice was going out for the season night after party, you may have had some regrets. Maybe you were recalling plans you'd made to skate and somehow didn't get around to.

"Think nothing of it." You can make the same plans now, and still enjoy the 1951-52 ice from a spectator's seat. It's more comfortable that way, and not nearly as wet. After a certain age, ice has its main appeal as a surface on which others perform. It's good for storing food and adds a little something to a long, tall glass of ginger ale, and such like. Still, if you're in a mood to feel sad over the season that's finished, to wish you'd gone skating, that's your privilege. The regret will be less keen next year. You're not crying over melted ice. The tears are for departing or departed youth.

IN EVERY LIFE there comes a time to lay aside the skates, not just for the season. It doesn't mean you've passed all exercise. You haven't. You just change your field of activities.

Maybe you'd like to linger a while, thinking the figure you used to cut on the steel blades. Maybe you'd like to, but you'll find a new bench manager who doesn't see it quite that way. She'll equip you with steel blades and a long handled stick, but they won't go on your feet or push a puck along the ice. You'll find the bench manager has dragged out the shoe and the hoe you thought you'd buried beyond recall under the litter of last year's gardening impedimenta.

You hadn't thought. It was easy for the bench manager to find them, and they're all ready to give you just as much exercise as if you'd gone skating.

DR. CARL ADMITS FAKING PHOTO

Field Remains Wide Open For $200 Award In Times' Caddy Competition

Dr. G. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, today admitted to a Times reporter that the picture of "Caddy" he submitted Monday to the Times as the "first official picture" of Victoria's elusive sea monster was not genuine.

"I wanted the money to provide comforts for totem-pole sitters," he jocularly confessed. The picture appeared in Monday's Times. The Times recently offered $200 for the first genuine picture of "Caddy."

"What do you mean it's a fake?" Dr. Carl at first exclaimed when pressed by a reporter. "I saw it floating in the Upper Harbor just above Johnson Street Bridge."

"If you want a statement as to whether it was alive at the time, that's different," he finally said, wittingly a bit.

"Was it?" he was asked. "No," he replied. Then he confessed he had "doctored" a photo he had taken of a log. The picture portrayed a log picked up some time ago and embellished by Max Lohbrunner, who moors his boats just above the bridge, he said.

Dr. Carl's photo was speedily acted upon Monday night by a panel of "Caddy" judges, in the wake of the scientist's confession. They pronounced it "interesting but unsuitable" for the reward money.

They announced the field is still "wide open" for "Caddy" photographers still wishing to claim the $200 Times' reward.

Victorians Face Record Tax Rate

55 Mills Latest Figure As Committees Wrestle Estimates

An austerity budget which would at the same time result in a record high Victoria tax rate of 55 mills, loomed a strong possibility today.

As committees wrestled with all-time high estimates to have them whipped into provisional budget shape for next Tuesday's council meeting, Mayor Percy George urged austerity and retrenchment in line with the federal government's appeal to municipalities.

While he said he could not comment on what the mill rate might be, he warned that an eight-to-ten mill increase, which has been speculated, could accentuate the slight trend begun last year toward property reversion.

The 1950 tax rate was 52 mills, a drop of one mill from 1949. Detailed and considered pruning, would be necessary this year to keep the increase as low as three mills, in view of the inflationary spiral of costs, and judging from estimates procedure and cutting of last year.

A mill last year produced $45,700. Increases over which the council has no control—school costs and salary increases awarded by conciliation boards will account for roughly 8½ mills this year.

MAJOR OPERATION

The question which will face council Tuesday is where can close to $500,000 be cut out of estimates for ordinary expenditure without curtailing essential services.

Mayor George spoke of the large number of people in Victoria on fixed incomes. If taxes went too high reverted property would be the result, he said.

While several committees have lopped a few thousand off their budgets, much of the cut has come from the extraordinary expenditures, which were never figured in the original speculation of a 10-mill increase.

Following Tuesday's council meeting, it is expected a general estimates meeting of the full council will be held, for all-over pruning of ordinary expenditures.

Snow Conference Opens Thursday At Crystal Garden

Nineteenth annual meeting of the Western Snow Conference will be held at the Crystal Garden Thursday and Friday under the auspices of the provincial department of lands and forests.

The Snow Conference is a technical organization which deals with the sciences of the hydrology and physics of snow and its related runoff.

The meeting will be held jointly with the Columbia River Basin Water Forecast Committee.

Outstanding Canadian and U.S. scientists and engineers will present papers at the meeting.

Among them: Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer of General Electric Company research laboratory at Schenectady, New York; George J. Klein of Canada's National Research Council; Dr. J. Lewis Robinson, professor of geography at U.B.C.

About 150 delegates will attend the meeting.

Committee Cuts Fire Dept. Sum

Legislative and fire wardens committee of the City Council Monday afternoon cut $451,000 from the extraordinary expenditures of the fire department, leaving only $21,500 for a new combination pumper.

Fire Chief Robert Brindle told committee it would be "suicide" to reduce the strength of the fire-fighting force. Cost of operating the department this year is estimated at $416,800.

Claims Billett Had Share In Hold-up Attempt

Testifying in Assize Court today as a Crown witness, John Benson of Toronto, who pleaded guilty with Wallace Stevenson of attempting to hold-up the Douglas Street Safeway-store here March 10, said that Arthur Clarence Billett was present on several occasions when they discussed robbing the store.

Billett is standing trial on a charge of attempted robbery in connection with the attempted hold-up. The Crown alleges that he aided and abetted Benson and Stevenson to plan the robbery.

Benson told the court that Billett knew of their intentions to rob the store. "He was in our company when we discussed the matter," he said. "He loaned us his car."

Benson said that he and Stevenson entered the store. "I don't remember very much after that," he said. "I was drinking. Someone had a gun, but I don't know who carried it."

The trial is continuing. H. K. Bate is representing the accused.

Brayshaw Speaking Contest Winner

James Brayshaw won the third golden Gavel preliminary public speaking contest held in the City Council chambers Monday.

E. W. Langston placed second and Edward P. Estlin third.

The three winners will compete with six others in the finals to be held at the City Hall on April 25. The six are Ronald Boulden, Gordon Hobson, Mrs. Irene Warren, Jack Vertueil, Thomas Wilson and Samuel Snobelen.

The contest held annually in Victoria is sponsored by the Victoria Toastmasters' clubs.

Canadian Giant Dwarfed

The sailor above is six-foot-eight. Until H.M.C.S. Ottawa was opened to visitors during her stay at Suva in the Fiji Islands, crew members had thought their shipmate, P.O. Robert Baldwin, Victoria, went about as high in the air as men can go. Then Fiji police came aboard, among them Sgt. Nemani Lutu, 350 pounds. Sailor from Victoria was then called Shorty.

No Early Decision On Trail Union Dispute

No early decision by the B.C. Labor Relations Board was expected today on whether or not it will reopen the long-standing dispute between two powerful unions for bargaining rights over employees of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Trail, B.C.

The board sat Monday, hearing legal arguments for and against reopening the case which the board had heard in March, 1950. The hearing ended late Monday afternoon.

T. G. Norris, K.C., appeared for the United Steelworkers of America, C.I.O., which is desiring certification at the smelter, while Jack Stanton appeared as legal counsel for the independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, which presently holds bargaining right at Trail.

Mr. Norris argued that the labor board should reconsider its decision of May, 1950, which denied the Steelworkers' Union its application for certification, and asked that the board conduct a vote at the plant to see which of the two unions the workers wished to belong.

Mr. Stanton argued that the board's original decision had been correct and that no vote should be taken at the plant since the Steelworkers' Union had no business there.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Sure It's Spring! They're Playing Jacks, Aren't They?

By PENNY SAVER

If anyone tries to tell you the magnificent rays from our boy, Sol, are not here to stay just give him two-bit tour 'round our shops where kiddies' toys are sold.

You know, the little Griseldas and Emmy-Lous have a sixth sense about spring and sunshine. Comes the first few fine days and the little gals haul out the roller skates.

A few weeks later, they'll show up with a season's supply of jacks, balls and skipping ropes. Spring is then, officially here to stay.

There were enough skipping ropes to delight the heart of any little gal, in a number of stores

The 29 cent ropes with brightly painted handles sat next to their new competitors, the shining, plastic "skippers," selling for 6 pennies more. Jacks, by the way, and there are 10 of them... with little rubber ball, 19 cents.

Pop will probably get a big laugh... we hope... out of the man-sized aprons being "tailored" just for him. They're plastic, hand-painted, bound with stout, white tape and easily washed. If the good man in your household enjoys whipping up the Sunday dinner or barbecued foods, he'll wear such creations as the "chow down" or "come and get it" numbers with the aplomb of an artist... at work! Price on all the fun, $1.98.

Hand-painted articles seem to be the new trend in plastic ware. Swim bags, for instance, are among the latest in this category.

Not only pretty to pack about but darned right practical, too. The twin bag set offers ample room for that drippy, wet swim suit in one compartment and in the other, space for dry towel, accessories and, if necessary, a sandwich or two! With over-the-shoulder strap, the sets sell for $1.39.

Good trick with extra egg white: Beat stiff, fold into cream sauce for scalloped dish. Helps it to brown better.

this morning. Not the usual supply, mind, but simply mounds of the colorful things.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Just in case you would like to do a little leg work to get those underpinnings in shape for shorts and swim suits, here goes.

Suppose your knees are too fat. If the overweight is on top of the knee the best method is massage. You can knead the flesh between your fingers and the heel of your hand. This is a pinching kneading motion. You should indulge in this for a short time daily.

Many women write about fat on the insides of the knees. Do the same thing in this area and add the following. Lie on your back on the floor, with your legs bent and feet flat on the floor. Separate the knees. Slap them together. Continue separating and slapping in a brisk fashion.

The ankle is a difficult part of the figure to reduce. Usually when the ankles are thick this is an inherited characteristic which cannot be entirely overcome. However, the following exercise is helpful: Sit on a chair. Cross your right leg over your left. Make circles with the top of the right foot. Circle first in one direction and then in the other. Be sure to make these as large as possible, feeling the pull about the ankle. After a while cross the left leg over the right and do the same thing.

I do not know which looks worse, hair on the legs showing through sheer silk stockings or openly appearing on bare legs. Certainly neither is attractive. Most women realize this and either shave the legs or use a depilatory. There are still some, however, who feel that these procedures are too much trouble since they must be repeated, and others who allow too long an interval to elapse in between this beauty treatment.

Do not handicap yourself by making this mistake. If you will not remove the hair regularly by temporary methods you

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Dear Mary Haworth: Please help me while I still retain a shred of sanity. George and I are an average couple, married 15 years. He is 38 and I am 37, we have four children, and have lived in our present dwelling for almost 10 years. Now we are contemplating a move to our new home within a month, and George and I are at sword's points about his collection of junk, which he insists on taking, too.

Perhaps there is a pack rat in George's genealogy somewhere. It seems that other people's cast-offs become his treasures. He is a home builder, and during our married life he's had various occupations, in the course of which he has accumulated a storehouse full of discards. For example, an old moth-eaten moose head, thousands of slightly bent nails, pieces of rope, odds and ends of linoleum, lengths of railing, etc.; and it is impossible to keep this miscellany clean, or to know what it includes, or where to find any separate item.

Dear L. C.: I think that understanding and tolerance, on your part, as regards George's collection, are more advisable than treating the phenomenon with self-righteous scorn. His compulsive hoarding of useless odds-and-ends indicates that he has been fending against very severe insecurity tensions all his life. And his careful saving of old school papers, childhood toys, etc., likewise refers to an unconexpect adult performance from him in childhood years.

Good psychologists tell us that neurotic devices to alleviate elusive anxiety actually serve a useful purpose for the emotionally disturbed individual, who is marking time until he can get a curative slant on the essential problem. Thus it seems fair to say that George is struggling towards mental health and social ballast, in clinging to a hobby that vaguely assuages a yearning for thrift, as a bulwark against want, need, poverty, etc.

—M. H.

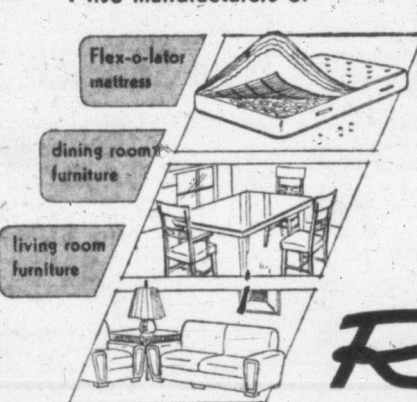

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of the Times.

Women's Union, First Baptist Church, Thursday, 2.30, lower auditorium. Miss Doreen Pendray to speak on her recent work with Marine Medical Missionary, Alaska.

ORANGE MOSS

Dissolve 1 package Orange Jell-O (the flavor is pure fruit!) in 1 1/2 cups hot water. (Yes, Jell-O dissolves in water that's hot, not boiling—retains more flavor.) Add 1/2 cup orange juice, 2 tps. grated orange rind. Chill. When slightly thickened, set in bowl of cracked ice; whip frothy, adding 1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk. Chill. 8 servings.

Cayuga Stoker Claims Bride

Sto. (M) Arthur David Dayton, H.M.C.S. Cayuga, home from Korean war theatre, claimed as his bride Donna Elsie Webster in a ceremony in Naden Chapel last evening. Padre Peebles officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webster, 3355 Whittier Avenue, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Dayton, Melville, Sask.

Baskets of spring flowers created the setting for the bride in her wedding gown of filmy white nylon styled with exquisite lace panels that extended from the long-sleeved bodice to the hem of the skirt where they formed a graceful train. A crown of fresh red roses held her finger-tip veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Necklace, bracelet and earrings of moonstones, gift of the groom, were her only jewelry.

A gown of pearly pink satin with triple skirts of nylon net, was worn by the bride's only attendant, Miss Betty Constable. Apple blossoms were worn in her hair and she carried a Colonial bouquet of blue iris.

Jim Dayton, H.M.C.S. Sioux, was best man for his brother, and the groom's witnesses, Arthur Evans, and Sally Robson, were ushers.

The newlyweds cut a two-tier wedding cake with a cavalry sword, at a reception held at the Roseberry Avenue home of Capt. and Mrs. L. Jackson.

Bride's table was set with lace cloth made by the bride's mother, and lighted candles.

For traveling to Melville, Sask., and later to Winnipeg, the bride wore three-piece tailleur of navy and grey gabardine with snake-skin shoes and companion bag. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids.

Bouquet of red and white carnations carried by Mrs. Hodges was presented by Provincial Chapter. Later, Mrs. Pellant received a similar bouquet from Mrs. C. L. Bishop, on behalf of Victoria Municipal Chapter.

Formal Ceremony Marks The Opening Of I.O.D.E. Meeting

Fifty-three standard-bearers from primary and junior I.O.D.E. Chapters, dressed in smart white suits and hats, participated in colorful procession of standards that marked opening of Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., 38th annual meeting in Crystal Ballroom, Empress Hotel, yesterday evening.

Provincial standard-bearer, Mrs. R. C. McCorkell, led the procession, followed by four Municipal Chapter standard-bearers, Mrs. L. A. Lucas, Victoria; Mrs. K. H. Bancroft, Burnaby; Mrs. G. H. Tressider, Burnaby, and Mrs. H. Elvin, Chilliwack.

Honor guests and provincial officers seated with Mrs. E. H. Pellant included Hon. Nancy Hodges, Mayor Percy E. George and Mrs. George, Bishop H. E. Sexton; honorary vice-presidents, Mrs. W. N. Martin and Mrs. R. J. Sprott, and provincial officers, Mesdames F. E. Dowdall, W. C. Nichol, D. W. McGhie, E. G. Bell, J. L. Gates, P. J. Keoughan, A. Berner, E. O. DuVernet, C. Barrett-Lennard and Denys Godfrey.

Loyalties to the King and Queen and to His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada were reaffirmed by Mrs. Pellant, and first vice-president, Mrs. F. E. Dowdall. Greetings were presented by Mrs. Hodges, Mayor George, Bishop Sexton and Mrs. C. L. Bishop, regent, Victoria Municipal Chapter, and reply given by Mrs. C. H. Jeffares, Trail.

Mrs. T. S. Floyd, accompanied by Mrs. Bell, sang several solos and was thanked by Mrs. W. N. Martin.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

In her address, Mrs. Pellant stressed the importance of "real Christianity in action not just professing Christianity."

To accomplish this, Mrs. Pellant said, "we must start with our children, the parents and the homes. Then this type of Christianity will spread to the community and the country."

The president pointed out that the great strength of the I.O.D.E. order is in its broad program of work; paid tribute to the "little chapters, especially those in remote districts who carry on the program under difficulties," and described briefly the importance of attending annual conventions.

"At a convention of this kind, members near and far gather to hear reports, share discussions, gain information and inspiration to take back to their respective chapters."

"They learn to measure up to their responsibilities, gain a broader view of our activities, exchange ideas and rub shoulders with other members."

Following the formal opening a reception was held in the lounge, with Mrs. Pellant and officers of Provincial Chapter, and Mrs. C. L. Bishop and officers of Victoria Municipal Chapter acting as hostesses.

Rescued From Marooned Car

Rescue crew, using rope and safety belts, work to remove occupants of car marooned by flash flood at Rock Creek Park, Washington, D.C. Elia Nadelman, construction company president, and his 16-year-old twin daughters, narrowly escaped drowning. Above, one of twins is carried to safety.

MacARTHUR POLICY SCORED BY BRADLEY

Says Course Advocated By Deposed Far East Commander Would 'Jeopardize World Peace'

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, five-star peer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said today Asian military policies advocated by the deposed commander would "jeopardize world peace."

Bradley was the first of the homecoming general's five-star brothers-in-rank to speak out publicly against the policy of carrying the war to China since President Truman dismissed MacArthur last week. Bradley did not mention MacArthur's name.

Last year's quick United Nations action in Korea, Bradley said, may have stayed the Kremlin's hand as it was about to precipitate a Third World War. Bradley roundly backed the President's stand against MacArthur's ideas and defended the administration's policy of limiting the war in Korea.

MAY BE STALEMATE

In a speech prepared for delivery to the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, Bradley also said:

1. The Korean war, under present conditions, may be headed toward a stalemate, but it can be brought to an honorable conclusion;
2. The United States will not wage a preventive war;
3. The one price the U.S. will not pay for peace is appeasement;
4. The use of the Reds have made of air bases in Manchuria to date has not warranted U.N. bombing of them;
5. Action against aggression in Korea upset Communist plans in Asia, at least temporarily preventing Red moves in Indo-China and perhaps saving Thailand and Formosa, and
6. Any attempt to settle the world crisis by an ultimatum—perhaps accompanied by a threat to bomb Russia—is militarily impracticable.

Allies Probe Smoke Screens Masking Reds

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO (AP)—Allied forces plowed deeper into North Korea today, maintaining relentless pressure on three enemy build-up areas where smoke screens may mask movements for a big Red offensive.

On the western front, Allied troops seized a foothold on the last remaining heights south of the rubble city of Chonwon. This is one of the three major bases 17 miles north of the 38th parallel.

To the east, Allied tank and infantry battered Reds guarding the road to Kumhwa, a bastion of the central front. Between Chonwon and Kumhwa a battle raged for the huge Hwachon Dam.

The Reds' man-made smoke screens began to lift late Tuesday afternoon. United Nations planes roared into action with jet-fuelled bombs, rockets and machine guns.

On the ground the Allies battered the Reds with artillery and rifle fire.

Thousands of Communist soldiers are massed in the hills north of the dam. The Allied attack was aimed to block their long-expected spring offensive.

'Cat Burglar' Activities May Be Ended By Arrests

Saanich Brothers Charged After $5,000 Loot Found

A sturdily-built, 34-year-old Saanich carpenter, believed by police to be Greater Victoria's famed "cat burglar," and his brother were charged in Saanich police court today and remanded without plea to Thursday.

Saanich police, meanwhile, said they have recovered more than $5,000 loot from the homes of the accused, Phillip Vass Russell, 3285 Seaton Road, and his brother, William Edward Russell, 3235 Shelbourne Street.

Phillip, the alleged "cat burglar," was charged specifically with breaking and entering and committing theft at the home of C. A. M. Hunter. William was charged with retaining property of Mr. Hunter.

James J. Proudfoot, representing the Russells, did not press for bail when Magistrate H. C. Hall said it would be "substantial" for Phillip Russell.

Phillip showed little signs of nervousness as he heard the charge read. A war veteran and carpenter, he has a wife and family.

His brother, Edward, also heard the charge against him with little emotion.

Both were taken to city jail after the Saanich hearing. Saanich has no jail.

OVER 60 THEFTS

The loot was recovered from the brothers' homes following years of investigation of more than 60 thefts, and a week-end of fast action which ended with the recovery of at least two truckloads of stolen goods.

Phillip was arrested Saturday night at Ten Mile Point, where Saanich police Sgt. Jack Hamilton and Const. Joe Armstrong were investigating complaints that a man was molesting occupants of cars parked there at night.

Simulating a fond twosome, they waited until they felt someone on the back bumper of their car. They then leaped out fired nine warning shots at the fleeing man and caught him as he tried to enter his own car parked in some bushes.

Phillip was charged at first with loitering. The police, suspecting further developments, investigated his home where they saw enough evidence to have a search warrant made out.

On a second and thorough search of the house they found the loot, hidden among the firewood of his basement.

Recovered were power and hand tools, watches, electric irons and hundreds of other articles.

He was named the "cat burglar" by Roy Thorsen, the Times police reporter.

Police expect it will take two or three days to check all details of the goods recovered.

B.C. Getting Proper Share Of Steel—Howe

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence production Minister Howe said today in the Commons every effort is being made to see that available steel supplies are distributed evenly.

He was replying to Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) who asked earlier of Mr. Howe had received a letter from the Sheet Metal Association of British Columbia. The letter complained about the distribution of steel supplies in British Columbia.

Mr. Howe said British Columbia has not been cut off from steel supplies. Purchasers could not be given all the steel they require, but efforts are being made to see that they obtain steel for essential needs and for maintenance purposes.

A meeting of the Sheet Metal Association and officials of the Defence Production Department has been arranged.

Yanks Trounce Red Sox

Chilly Fans See Raschi Win, 5-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Raschi stopped the vaunted Boston Red Sox's power boys cold with six hits today to pace the world champion New York Yankees to a 5 to 0 victory before 44,860 top-coated fans. Jackie Hensen hit a two-run homer and a double to pace the Yankees' seven-hit attack.

Both were taken to city jail after the Saanich hearing. Saanich has no jail.

DETROIT (AP)—Big Bob Lemon was hot and 43,470 opening day fans were chilled by near-freezing weather as the Cleveland Indians nipped the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1, in Briggs Stadium today. Both Tiger hits were by Jerry Priddy.

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran Andy Pafko and rookie Dee Fondy banged six hits between them for a total of 13 bases, touching off an 8 to 3 Chicago Cubs win over the Cincinnati Reds before a crowd of 18,211 today.

Eafko clouted a homer, triple and single. Fondy batted across four runs with a triple and two singles.

EVER TRY FOR APPROVAL OF SEAL SCENT REMOVAL?

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UP)—Officials of the Portuguese Bend Beach Club still are spinning in circles. A dead seal—giving off a less-than-pleasant odor—was washed ashore at the club beach.

The club called the Coast Guard to remove the carcass. The Coast Guard referred the matter to the sheriff's office. The sheriff's office recommended the Humane Society. The Humane Society contacted the county road department. The road department asked the air pollution board.

The air pollution board gave the problem to the health department.

The health department called in the sanitation department. The sanitation department had the solution—the Coast Guard.

Club officials threw in the sponge, hired a truck and removed the seal themselves.

Conant To Hurl Against Victoria

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—The Spokane Indians break camp tonight after three weeks of spring training and head home to open the Western International League baseball race Friday against Victoria Athletics.

Johnny Conant, a veteran right-hander who won 17 and lost 17 for the tribe last year, was picked to pitch the opener against the A's.

Immigration department's prohibited list, it was explained, because of a 1949 conviction on a morals charge in California.

Plans for the exhibition were called off today by club officials when they learned of the immigration department's stand. A scheduled appearance in Vancouver April 27 was also canceled.

Also to have appeared in the exhibition here were Richard "Pancho" Gonzales, former U.S. amateur champion; Frank Parker, former U.S. Davis Cup player, and George Lyttleton Rogers, former Irish Davis Cup player and now a U.S. resident.

Craft Fails To Surface After Dive

PORTSMOUTH (UP)—The 1,620-ton British submarine Affray was feared sunk in the English Channel today with 75 men aboard. A Danish ship found a big oil slick in the search area.

The report raised hope briefly but a British naval vessel, which quickly investigated, reported it was from furnace oil and not diesel oil, the type used by the submarine.

The Affray, carrying 75 men on a training cruise, failed to come out of a dive and was feared lost in 240 feet of water.

British, French and American warships raced over to the scene and began searching a 1,900-mile rectangle southwest of the Isle of Wight and north of Cherbourg, France.

WARNING FLASHED

The search was set off by the dreaded Admiralty message "Subsmash One"—which alerts all naval ships and planes for rescue operations. In mid-afternoon the Admiralty flashed "Subsmash Two," which is an anticipation of disaster.

In a communique, the Admiralty said there still was a faint hope the Affray had misunderstood her orders and still was in a deep dive beyond reach of radio signals.

Air in a submarine is sufficient to last 48 hours, provided the hull is intact.

More than a score of ships, including two U.S. destroyers and four French craft, joined the hunt, along with British naval planes. Aboard the Affray was the regular crew of the captain, four officers, 46 crewmen and four marines. They were accompanied by 20 visiting officers taking a training course.

The Affray, built in 1946, was commanded by Lt. John Blackburn, holder of the Distinguished Service Cross.

DIVERS FLOWN IN

The ship was under orders to make a practice dive Monday night and to come up this morning, 12 hours later. She was required to report to the Admiralty daily between 8 and 9 a.m. (2 to 3 a.m. E.S.T.). This she failed to do.

Divers from a navy base in Scotland were flown to Portsmouth and instructed to be ready to dive as soon as the sub is located.

Among the search fleet, which was growing hourly, were the American destroyers Perry and Ellison. British ships included six submarines and five destroyers. Numerous aircraft joined the search and salvage craft from Portsmouth were getting up steam to join the hunt.

The Affray, 281 feet long, was completed in May, 1946. She was equipped with ejection devices to propel the crew to the surface through escape hatches. But the 240-foot depth of the channel made such an operation hazardous, experts said.

The Affray's plight was the second British submarine disaster in little more than a year. Sixty-four were killed Jan. 12, 1950, when the Truculent sank in the Thames estuary after colliding with a Swedish motor tanker.
